About US

Project Hope for Ugandan Women

We are a non-profit corporation that provides free healthcare for women in Mayombe, Uganda. All proceeds go to Bronze Medical Centre to cover the cost of yearly screenings, prenatal care, delivery, postnatal care, and early pediatric care. Since beginning our efforts at the beginning of 2016 we have reached over 60 patients. Since the first of April we have taken on 15 new cases, treated 50 revisiting mothers, and had 10 successful deliveries.

We work with Sam Sanya, Founder of Bronze Medical Centre, to provide women with FREE healthcare services such as:

- Yearly screenings and testing
- Health Education/Family Planning
- Antenatal / Prenatal Care
- Labor and Delivery
- Postnatal Care
- Early Pediatric/Infant Care

Meet the Team

Julie Stinchcomb Rice, Secretary

Earlier in life I traveled a great deal to third world areas. I've been to the Amazon where everyday items such as a bottle of water or aspirin could have made a huge impact on someone's life. I became involved with Project Hope for Ugandan Women because I think each woman should have access to things our society takes for granted in order to have a safer pregnancy and labor.

Sam and his team have put a tremendous amount of work into providing much needed medical services for their neighbors. That kind of passion is infectious, as is their drive to constantly improve and reach even more women and children. I am so happy that there will be a few less worries for these women during an already stressful time of life, and their children will have a nurturing and passionate staff supporting them along the way.

Sharon Royle, President & CEO

My passion for helping the women of Uganda started after learning of the true need of the community of Mayombe. Through Sam, I learned the women of his village did not have access or could not afford yearly screenings, prenatal, delivery or post natal care. They were simply going without; and as result, women and children were dying. Sam and his wife Julian started the Bronze Medical Centre with a simple goal in mind, to provide free healthcare for women and make their community a better place to live. Inspired by their passion and seeing an opportunity to be a part of something life changing, I started Project Hope for Ugandan Women. I not only want to help with their efforts but I also want to show women, even in the most remote parts of the world, that we care.
